DIFFERENT THERE

Mexico has a system of law enforcement, after which it sometimes seems we would do well to pattern.

Argument and resort to the courts are dangerous pastimes, for the first thing one knows he has his back to an adobe wall and facing a firing squad. There is no legal technicality that avails under such circumstances. The incident then and there is closed for all time.

A few days ago President Cardenas of the Southern Republic decided that gambling was not good for his people and thereupon issued a decree banning it, the order effective the next day. And when he said effective it meant just that.

EVERYBODY DOING IT
The Mexican people love to gamble, but he it said that in that respect they are not strikingly different from the people in the republic to the north of them. But there is another marked difference between them. The American begins to figure when the lid is clamped down how he can circumvent and evade the law but the Mexican knows that it is to his best interests to comply with it, else—

The border towns of Mexico, Tia Juana, Mexicali, Juarez, Nogales and several others of lesser importance have not only been wide open in every sense but a percentage from the wages of sin have been paid to the Mexican government. In other words it has been licensed gambling and from it the different States have obtained much revenue.

Tia Juana and Agua Caliente, just below the border in Lower California, only sixteen short miles from San Diego, have been perhaps the most notorious.

Shots Fired By Troopers In Walkout

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 23.—UP—Bullets marred conciliation efforts in Terre Haute's paralyzing general strike tonight as National Guardsmen fired on a motorist who refused to stop when commanded.

The unidentified motorist drove his car through one of the military zones set up when martial law was proclaimed. Bullets sang out from soldiers' rifles and ripped into the tires of the car.

DRIVER FLEES
The motorist, unharmed, abandoned his automobile and fled. Charles L. Richardson and Harry E. Schick, federal court clerks, meanwhile pressed negotiations for settlement of the strike which has tied up business and industry here for two days.

They conferred with T. N. Taylor, president of the state federation of labor, and planned a meeting with L. G. Brown, chamber workers' union president, and officials of the Columbian Enameling and Stamping plant.

ORDER RESTORED
A semblance of order was restored to the strike torn city of 65,000 after state militia enforcing a martial law prohibiting picketing and assemblages, had dispersed crowds at the enameling plant with tear gas and arresting 55 persons.

Those arrested were held in the Vigo county jail, guarded by the State troops. They will be given a hearing before a military court.

STORES REOPENED
The military rule also had facilitated reopening of countless stores.

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—UP—President Lazaro Cardenas tonight imposed a censorship throughout Mexico, took control in the troubled state of Tabasco and moved to oust Governor Rafael Villareal of Tamaulipas State in a series of executive proclamations approved by Congress and prison by leading church dignitaries and political leaders.

Jap Liner And Freighter Crash Off Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—UP—The crew of the freighter Calmar stood by the ship tonight as she settled slowly into the water following a collision with the Japanese freighter, Koryu Maru, ten miles south of the San Francisco lightship off the Golden Gate.

First reports from the Calmar's radio operator indicated the crew of 36 men was taking to the life boats in a calm sea about an hour after the crash. The Calmar sent an SOS at 3 P. M.

The Koryu Maru, bound from San Francisco to Japan, struck the Calmar, bound for San Francisco, amidships. It was reported.

The Japanese ship was standing by the Calmar to give aid if needed. A lifeboat had been put out to effect any emergency rescues.

The Calmar, while reported in a sinking condition, was said to be sinking slowly. The Koryu Maru apparently sustained only minor damage in the mishap.

The Coast Guard cutters, Shonson and Daphne, and Coast Guard cutters from Port Point and Point Bonita were expected to reach the scene about midnight.

Woman Questioned In Mystery Death Of Pittsburg Merchant

A widow shied at Berkeley's lie detector yesterday as Contra Costa authorities attempted to question her about the murder of her husband.

Mrs. Lillian Ferrando pleaded against examination under the machine, won her plea under promise of submitting to such questioning today, and was finally returned to the county jail at Martinez.

BREAK IS SEEN
Immediately Sheriff John A. Miller announced.

"There will be a definite break in the case tomorrow."

Mrs. Ferrando arrived Monday on a warrant charging burglary, was taken to Berkeley by deputy sheriffs. They wanted to question her under the lie detector about the four-month mystery surrounding the violent death of her husband, Anthony Ferrando, commit man of merchant of Pittsburg.

BODY FOUND
Ferrando, 41, started from Pittsburg for Stockton in his truck March 2. The following morning his body, riddled with bullets, was found beside a back road near Pittsburg. His pockets had been turned inside out and a large sum of money was missing.

At that time Sheriff Miller announced his intention of questioning Ferrando's 41 year old wife, who lived at 2167 Lincoln avenue, Alameda, and retained her former name.

WORK WILL START SOON ON PROJECT

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation commissioner, said today the Works Allotment Board had allotted $81,900,000 for Western reclamation projects, including $20,000,000 for California's Central Valley project.

The set-up as approved by the allotment board calls for the work to be undertaken under supervision of the Federal Government rather than under the State Central Valley Authority.

CANAL PROJECT
The allotment board also approved allocation of $15,000,000 for the All-American canal, Southern California project.

Representatives Henry E. Stubbs, D. Cal., congressional sponsor of the Central Valley project, said he had been informed the money would be available "in two weeks."

F. D. R. APPROVES
Dr. Mead said President Roosevelt attended the meeting of the board, and Presidential approval of the allotment was expected immediately. The Treasury Department probably will make the money available soon thereafter, Mead said.

The provisions of the $61,900,000 allotment call for employment of an average number of 23,772 men at an average cost per man year of $2.64.

The announcement did not state the division of the fund, but there is expectation that it conforms to previously announced plans.

This division follows:
Antioch electric distribution plant, $4,500,000.

Contra Costa conduit, $500,000 (estimated cost of construction is $2,900,000).

Re-location of Southern Pacific trackage near Kennett dam, $5,152,400.

Friant-Madera canal, $500,000.

San Joaquin pumping system, $1,331,100.

Men Returning To Work In Big Lumber Strike

SEATTLE, July 23.—UP—Seven hundred striking union workmen returned to their jobs today in the Weyerhaeuser mill at Snoqualmie, and 550 employees of Seattle's largest mill, the Cedar Lumber Manufacturing Company, said tonight they would go back to work tomorrow under conditions outlined by owners.

The return of nearly 1,300 men provided the most significant breaks in the crumbling Northwest lumber strike since two giant mills opened at Longview.

NEW CLUE IN GANG MURDER IS UNCOVERED

(CHICAGO, July 23.—UP)—Louie Alterie, one time gunman for Al Capone who was slain from an ambush here last week, met his death because he was trying to muscle into the Denver racket, police here believed today.

A telegram directed to Harry Schechtel, broker indicted in Denver for participation in bond frauds, was intercepted here two hours after Alterie was killed. Police at Denver, meanwhile, learned from Schechtel that he was warned on the telephone the night before Alterie was shot that he, Schechtel, would meet the fate due Alterie on the morning unless he induced Federal agents to quash the bond racket indictments.

Police launched an immediate search for Jack Freed, signer of the telegram to Schechtel and believed to be the same man who called Schechtel from Chicago giving the name of Edward Schulman.

Schechtel is one of 26 men indicted in Denver for a bond fraud scheme through the mails alleged to have netted the participants $500,000. Schechtel pleaded guilty to the charge and is free on bond pending trial of the others in the case. He is believed to have informed Federal agents of the activities of the gang and to be a government witness.

The fact that Schechtel was forewarned of the death of Alterie leads police here to believe that the spectacular murder was the outgrowth of a racket war in Denver and not the result of a labor union vendetta in Chicago. Police here also considered it possible that Alterie had "squealed" to Federal agents in the Denver case to rid himself of some of his racket competitors here.

The telegram to Schechtel, intercepted here the day of the murder of Alterie, read: "You better clear the boys with Tom Morrissey, (United States district attorney at Denver). If Louie's accident today does not convince you then you can expect the same. You will be next. (Signed) Jack Freed."

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said that two men were with Freed when he phoned the telegram from a drug store pay station. The proprietor of the drug store is uncertain whether he can identify the men, Sullivan said.

ALVIN KARPIS IS HUNTED IN POLICE BATTLE

(FAIRBURY, Neb., July 23.—UP)—Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1 by virtue of survival, was believed to be the leader of a trio of desperadoes who today fled through Kansas in a commandeered automobile after a battle here.

Sole known survivor of the murderous crew which shot it out with Federal agents at the Little Bohemia lodge in Northem Wisconsin, Karpis was being sought in this region after three men kidnaped Emil Ackman of Fairbury last week and questioned him about Jess Doyle, a Karpis henchman now in custody.

The same trio robbed a filling station attendant at Chester last night and today narrowly escaped capture when it blundered into an ambush set by Chief of Police Joe Cook and Marshal Foster Helvey at the south city limits. Cook and Helvey recognized the automobile used in the Chester robbery and commanded the occupants to stop. When the trio sped on, the officers fired their shotguns and then followed in an automobile.

The chase was brief. The police were being outdistanced at 80 miles an hour, but soon they came upon the abandoned bandit car with tattered tires. The fugitives had fled afoot.

Next trace of the gunmen was at Herkimer, Kan., where the same trio abducted William Grossman, a Kansas City salesman, and left him bound in a church near Blue Rapids, Kan., an hour later and drove away in his automobile.

BIG BUDGET SLASH MADE IN D. A. OFFICE

MARTINEZ, July 23.—The first notable slash in county officials' budgets was in the office of the district attorney, where the sum of $6,000 was lopped off by the Board of Supervisors from the secret service and crime detection funds, $2,500 off the former and $3,500 from the latter.

THINGS MAY HAPPEN

Healey declared that the functions these funds cover cannot be undertaken by his office for the amounts expended in the last fiscal year, referring to "certain things that may happen" and declaring that "since May he has been required to take over considerable policing."

GIVEN, IF NEEDED

"If there is necessity for further funds," Chairman W. J. Buchanan declared, "they can be secured from the unappropriated reserve, but I feel a reduction should be made in the budget requests. We have never curtailed necessary expenditures of peace officials."

Healey pointed out that last year only $25 was expended for operative salaries.

"We will have to spend that much in one night," the prosecutor said, "when raiding is undertaken."

The district attorney also pointed to the lack of any expenditure for interpreters last year and said there could not be reasonable expectation that interpreters would not be required during the coming year.

CUTS OUT STENOGRAPHER

Healey informed the board he had eliminated one stenographer from his office and he hopes to eliminate a second.

The supervisors approved an expenditure of $950 for purchase of a safe for the office of the county treasurer, recommended by the grand jury, but directed that the charge be made against the Court house fund instead of the treasurer's office.

Among other offices, departments and functions for which budgets were considered and tentatively passed were the board of supervisors, county clerk, auditor, assessor, tax collector, coroner and elections.

REQUESTED BUDGET

The requested budget, as submitted by the district attorney's office was as follows:

Salaries	$21,775
Reporters' fees	1,200
Operatives' wages	60
Bond	100
Repair of equipment	750
Telephone and telegraph	1,500
Auto mileage	6,000

Books	600
Office supplies, mis.	500
Periodical publications	100
Postage	125
Miscellaneous supplies	50
Office equipment	300
Office furniture	50
District Attorney's special fund	5,000

DOCTOR TAKES RELATIVES ON AUTO OUTING

ESTES PARK, Colo., July 23.—UP—Dr. T. Richmond, his wife and the 26 relatives he acquired by marriage, swarmed all over the Trail Ridge road today. They had a picnic and then returned to their camp, four miles west of Estes Park village.

The cagey Kansas City, Kan., physician, evaded the newspapermen again today and took his guests on a picnic. He had announced that the caravan was going to Grand Lake, scenic Mountain Lake at Lake where inland millionaires go to get caught up on their sailing and speedboat thrills.

Instead of going over the Continental Divide to the picturesque lake the good doctor, who is on to prove that a man can live with his in-laws without a constant battle, detoured his vacation trip and led them to a picnic lunch in the mountains. The party, traveling in an 18 passenger bus, two automobiles and a truck, returned to Estes Park for the night.

Dr. Richmond continued to be surprised by the amount of excitement he had created.

"I have been coming to Colorado for my vacations for 25 years. I told the United Press 'My vacation trips never caused any excitement before, but this year, just because I brought my wife's relatives you would think it was the Lewis and Clark expedition playing a role in the game.'"

Dr. Richmond is financing the entire trip. "How about it," the United Press correspondent asked Dr. Richmond, "have you had to borrow any money from your relatives?"

"If we keep up the present rate of spending I am going to have to touch a few of them for a couple of dollars before we get back to Kansas City."

SCHOOLS ASK BIG INCREASE IN BUDGETS

MARTINEZ, July 23.—The sum of $215,480 in excess of last year is asked in the 1935-36 proposed expenditures for Contra Costa county schools, the rise resulting largely from building and the hiring of more teachers, according to figures released today from the office of County Superintendent Bryan O. Wilson.

Of the total sum, $115,995 is proposed for the elementary system and $111,028 for the high schools, making $2,300,023 in all, with an increase in elementary funds of $103,853 and in high schools of $111,977.

PLAN BUILDING

Alamo, Ambrose, Brentwood and Excelsior grammar schools represent the highest increase in elementary districts. Proposed expenditures for Alamo are increased approximately 63 percent; for building purposes, for Ambrose 131 percent for building and a new teacher, 89 percent for building at Brentwood, and 52 percent for another teacher at Excelsior.

John Sweet high school district will incur a 39 percent increase for building purposes, according to the proposed expenditure table.

Richmond high school district, involving an increase of 12 percent for building purposes, represents the highest expenditure at $467,210.

12 EXCEED LIMIT

Ten elementary and two high school districts in the county will be required to petition the state board of equalization because of excess requests for next year's budget, the amounts running over expenditures of previous years more than five percent.

Alamo requests an excess over the legal maximum of $6,193 for an additional teacher and building; Antioch, $5,333 for alterations and repairs of intermediate school building; Ambrose, $13,450, additional teacher and building; two rooms; Brentwood, $17,599, additional teacher and building; two rooms.

Byron, $1,489, additional teacher and transportation for old Vasco district; Carquinez, $41,318, strengthening building to guard against earthquake hazard; Clayton Valley, $2,522, additional teacher and temporary room; Excelsior, $2,003, additional teacher and improvements; Sheldon, $619, installing water supply and improving grounds; Walnut Creek $1,181, general improvements and providing for growth.

John Sweet high school district requests $71,205 in excess of the maximum, for strengthening its building to guard against earthquake hazard, and Mt. Diablo asks $12,292 for an additional building.

A total of $295,509 in excess of legal maximums is requested in all.

Science Finds That Nerve Operations Often Alleviate Physical Distress

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

THE first official reports are coming in from the recent annual meeting of the American Medical Association at Atlantic City. The speakers for these annual meetings are chosen for their activity in research in various fields and for their ability to express their conclusions according to personal opinion and as representing the group voice of their fellow workers. Hence, the profession accepts their pronouncements as a report of the latest findings in modern medical science.

Probably no topic was of greater interest than the one discussed by Dr. Alfred W. Adson, neuro-surgeon of Rochester, Minn., when he told of the new style of surgery dealing with the various types of nervous disturbances. The forms of disease or physical distress arising in the nervous system that can be relieved by surgery range from cold feet to discolored eyeballs. One condition, called Raynaud's disease, is characterized by excessive chilling of the extremities. The sensitivity to cold is abnormal and acutely painful. The hands and feet are blue, and the breath is repressed as in any constriction of the blood vessels.

Muscular Weakness

A disease of the skin due to nerve trouble produces a thickened and stiffened epidermis that has peculiar patches on it. This condition is accompanied by a muscular weakness, involving especially the opening of the mouth or sticking out of the tongue. Many persons who get nervously tired find it difficult to maintain a conversation, especially to complete a description of an event involving a consecutive train of thought. A very annoying condition especially afflicting office workers, is excessive sweating of the hands and, usually, the feet. This condition is called hyperhidrosis and is sometimes so severe as to interfere with employment.

A type of gangrene, with a long and difficult name, arises from the forming of clots in the blood vessels, which become the seat of inflammation and sometimes cause the loss of an arm or leg. An affection of the retina of the eye, involving the hardening and discoloration of the retinal membranes, may be of nervous origin. High blood pressure, of what we call the essential type, is also traced to the same or similar source.

In a number of diseases in which the bladder and other organs are affected, a disorder of their functions is produced by muscular spasms and these are caused by lack of co-operation in the nerve centers.

Of Nervous Origin

Here is what Dr. Adson says of the conditions that have been mentioned: "All of these conditions have been successfully treated by operations on the sympathetic nervous system. Operations which while extensive, are no more dangerous than an operation for simple appendicitis. In each operation, one or more of the sympathetic nerves are cut. Which one depends upon the particular disease and the location of the diseased condition."

These experiments in neuro-surgery are of the greatest importance to both the patient and the doctor, since no class of diseases is more perplexing and discouraging to either of these folks than those of nervous origin. Years ago, I had a woman patient who was subject to violent headaches. Invariably the headache brought on a fit of ill temper that almost drove her family from home. Her husband was continuously begging me to contrive some sort of operation that would put a stop to these abominable spells.

If we knew where folks kept their tempers, I told him we would find the surgeries overworked. It has been proved true in countless cases that properly placed operative measures have cured the most baffling and mental misbehavior. We shall hope to much from this form of medical science.

Profiles For Today

Australia's Premier Is A Plain Man

By TALBOT LAKE

OFFICIALLY, the Right Honorable Joseph Lyons is known as the Prime Minister and Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Australia. He prefers to be called Joe.

That, he said during his recent visit to the United States, is how he is greeted at home. Though he is regarded as a person without swank or pretension, he does carry the dignity of a man who has done much, has much to do and has entire confidence in his own ability to do it.

Arriving in the United States en route to his home "down under," after being present with Mrs. Lyons at the King's Jubilee celebration in England, the Right Honorable Joseph and his plump, handsome, young-looking wife, were overnight guests at the White House. A state dinner was given in their honor at the Executive Mansion as well. The visit may result in spurring a reciprocal trade agreement between Australia and the United States.

This was the first time he had ever visited the United States. Born in Tasmania 56 years ago, he knew what it was like to earn his own living early. He became a school teacher and followed that career for a while, but he believed there was a greater future for him in practical politics. Hence, he gave up teaching and since that time he has been identified with Australia's Federal Labor party.

When debt and depression brought Australia's crisis, he brought it to a head. A member of a Labor Cabinet, members of his party began to swing toward the expedient of a wild inflationary program. Joe Lyons stepped out and up.

He rallied conservatives into a United Australia party. He placed himself at the head of it, much as J. Ramsay MacDonald took control of a National Cabinet in England. Then he set himself to finding a way out of the depression. Public salaries were reduced, pensions were cut. Every possible economy was practiced. The last fiscal report showed that Australia has a surplus of 700,000 pounds—about $3,000,000. Stock of medium height and with a shock of gray hair, Joe Lyons has a pleasant smile. He and Mrs. Lyons did not bring their children along. Presumably that would have been inconvenient. There are eleven of them.

Deodorants Help You to Keep Smart

By JACQUELINE HUNT

EARLY in their teens girls should learn the value of deodorants—the easy-to-use powders and soaps and the antiperspirants—for no girl can be truly sweet, charming and well-groomed if she neglects such details.

A daily warm, soapy bath followed by a cool or cold shower and a rub down with scented toilet water will go a long way toward keeping perspiration in check by normalizing the circulation. But during adolescence, when glands are over-active, perspiration cannot always be controlled by such simple measures. In these cases the use of an antiperspirant or a deodorizing agent is also needed.

And girls, while we are discussing such unpleasant but necessary subjects, let me suggest a few plain, old-fashioned neatness. Many of you who are so careful to take your daily baths, shampoo your tresses and use your top-knots as soon as they lose their luster and take the best of care of your skin are careless about little things.

You forget to shorten the slip that shows, you allow shoulder straps to be carelessly about little things. Well balanced, neat, eight to nine hours of sleep in cool, well ventilated rooms, outdoor exercise and daily natural elimination will keep young girls healthy and encourage a fair complexion that is free from blemishes.

If you should develop a light case of acne, take steps to clear it up at once. Get a good acne ointment and an antiseptic, effective lotion that will heal and dry up the ugly pimples and blackheads. Let your doctor suggest a diet and additional treatment if they are needed. Follow his directions faithfully until every blemish has disappeared.

Scrupulous cleansing twice a day with a small, complete brush and a pure bland soap will do more than anything else to keep your skin fine textured and to clear up blackheads and oiliness before they have a chance to develop into acne.

Seldom are the stronger cosmetics needed for a youthful skin. Occasionally we find a skin that needs a bracing, but not too strong, astringent; or a thin, dry skin that needs a rich lubricating cream. These cases are exceptions.

A time-table of beauty events for brides who want to be glamorous is contained in the leaflet, "Beauty For Spring Brides." Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I need some advice on manicures. My hands are rather plump and my fingers short and stubby. Will long, pointed nails make my fingers look more slender? What is the first step in a good manicure?"

Mrs. G. Z. Long, pointed nails will make your short, stubby fingers more noticeable. Try filing them in an almond shape, close at the sides and with a rounded point at the longest part. Pinch and mold the flesh on each side of the nails. You can actually train your fingers into more slender lines by this method. When you apply your polish, do not cover the entire nail, but keep the polish in about a sixteenth of an inch from the sides. This will give an illusion of shapeliness. The first step of a good manicure is the removal of the old polish. Shaping the nails and then using a cuticle remover or softener are the next steps.

QUESTION: "Every summer my skin becomes dry and fine lines appear around and between my eyes. These usually disappear and my skin improves when fall comes, but I've noticed that the lines are becoming deeper and do not disappear so readily as they used to. Is there some way that I can remove them?"

The lines should have been treated when they first appeared. However, you can do much to prevent their reappearance this summer by using a good soothing cream or muscle oil and wearing colored glasses when you are in the bright sun. Apply the cream after cleansing nightly and smooth the lines with gentle massage strokes.

A Smart Figured Coat Tops Off Your Frocks

By IRENE VAIL

New York—To possess a smart figured coat is to be in the know. Such a coat, in the appropriate length and cut, is just the thing to top any number of frocks. It is not intended that it match the frock, but offer a bold contrast to it.

Smart shops and custom-made establishments discourse at great length on the success of the printed suit. It is fresher looking than the printed dress, and answers the same purpose. It is usually worn with a lingerie blouse, embroidered organdie being a favorite, though it may be worn with others.

There are some extremely crisp, good looking taffeta suits—plaid, pin checks, striped or dotted, as well as any quantity of printed crepes. They are not all in floral motifs, by any means. It's a big year for dots—small dots, medium dots and large. This reminds me to mention that the polka-dotted bathing suit is one of the best of the year. White dots, not too large, on dark grounds are smartest. Besides the omnipresent white or navy, there is also

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "When I plan dinner for seven and ask my friends to come at seven, they have a way of struggling in anywhere from seven to seven-fifteen. Meanwhile the potatoes get water-soaked and the meat dries out. Next time, I'm seriously thinking of asking them to get here a half hour earlier, at six-thirty, to have them here on time."—Mrs. G. H.

ANSWER: The measure which you desperately propose trying happens to be precisely the correct form. It is customary to receive, visit and serve cocktails until about half an hour after the time mentioned in the invitations to one's guests.

QUESTION: "Which form is correct, 'thanks, thank you,' or 'I thank you?'—V. D."

ANSWER: "Thank you" is the correct phrase. "I thank you" is also correct, but unpopular for common usage because pompous sounding.

QUESTION: "At what point in the marriage ceremony does the best man hand the ring to the groom?"—Best Man."

ANSWER: Precisely at the point where it is required in the ceremony. That ought to be easy to remember. Just make sure that you remember where the ring is.

Simple Menu Bride's Best Early Effort

By JUDITH WILSON

HOW wonderful it would be if happy brides could be transformed into competent cooks and housewives the moment the wedding journey is over! Back in your spotless kitchen among your shiny new pots and pans with a steaming refrigerator and efficient new range, cooking seems so simple that your first impulse is to invite everyone you know to help you celebrate.

But wait a while. You must first be able to place before your new husband a well balanced and attractive meal, with every item on your menu perfectly cooked, deliciously seasoned and garnished to appeal to the eye as well as to the taste. When you have learned how to plan so that the cold dishes on your menu are cold and the hot ones are sizzling and ready at precisely the right moment, you can begin to plan for guests.

DINNERS FOR TWO

Small Steaks with Sautéed Mushrooms
Creamed New Potatoes
Garden Salad
Strawberry Shortcake
Iced Coffee

Chilled Tomato Juice
Baked Chicken in Cream Gravy
Buttered Asparagus
Browned Potatoes

Keep your early meals simple with only two or three courses and try to improve on a few recipes rather than trying out a lot of them without success. One of the first things you should learn is how to broil a perfect steak, brown and crusty on the outside, tender and juicy inside. Learn to prepare the cheaper cuts of meat, too, in succulent pot roasts, stews and meat pies that men adore.

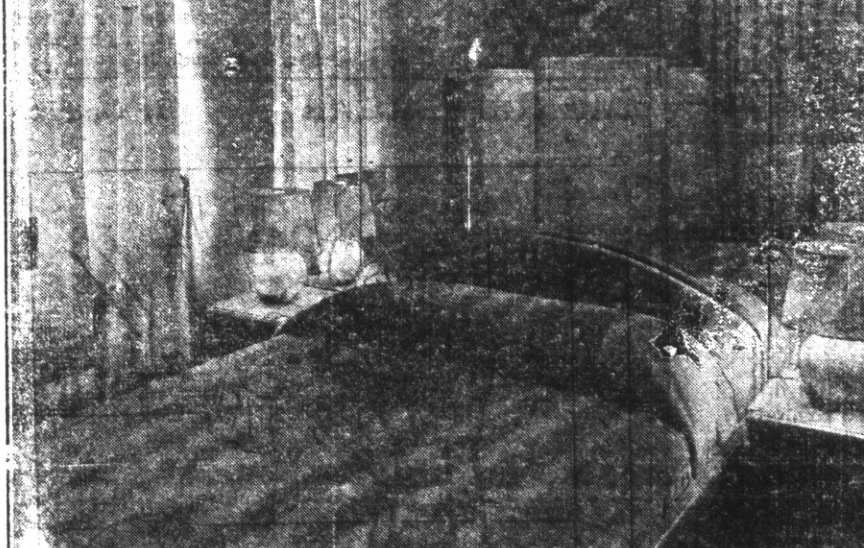

Once you have learned to cook meat well, you can serve an attractive meal. First courses are always easy. Even the most inexperienced bride can put a can of tomato juice into the refrigerator to chill.

Serve tomato juice in small but pretty glasses that have been set in the refrigerator for a few minutes before you use them. Garnish with a thin slice of lemon and a tiny sprig of parsley, or sprinkle with chopped parsley and put a lemon wedge on the side. When you serve melon, put a wedge of lemon or lime on the plate.

Cooking potatoes is fairly simple. Most vegetables are also easy to prepare if you will remember to put them into rapidly boiling, salted water and cook them only until tender. By cooking your vegetables quickly you will find that most of their bright, natural colors are preserved and the flavor is much improved. Drain at once and dress simply with melted butter and additional seasonings if needed. When you become more skilled, you may try more complicated sauces occasionally, but remember that most people prefer simple flavors.

Your early salad should be simple combinations of garden greens attractively arranged in a large bowl, from which the guests help themselves. Wash your greens thoroughly and put into a cheesecloth bag to chill and crisp. Tomatoes cut into thin wedges, slices of cucumber and tiny scallops may be added.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

MOTHERS of sons who marry girls with money see no reason to deplore the fact. Mothers of girls who make rich marriages seldom bemoan the fact. So why isn't it so plain horse sense for the mother of penniless girls, who wonder how lovely, to admit that they are greatly handicapped in the matrimonial race?

They should face the fact that something must be done to offset a handicap. The Latin has a word for it—the dot. Dowry or nest-egg to us.

"My dear Mrs. Martin: Have you noticed, I wonder, that the marriageable young men seem to show no interest in poor girls? They hover around girls with money and moneyed parents and don't seem to give a thought to the girls who have nothing but themselves to give? It may be a condition peculiar only to the town in which we live, but it is most pronounced here in —. I am the mother of two beautiful girls, one twenty and the other nearly eighteen, but are they really attractive? They are not! The less attractive but better-off girls have the pick of the crop. What's the matter? Don't modern men appreciate beauty and seek out girls that are both beautiful and well brought up?"

"Discouraged Mother."

I am sure they admire beauty as much as ever, but the upkeep is too high, or so these headed young men reason. Beauty is not enough. Not any more. A girl must contribute something tangible if she hopes for a good marriage. The Latin system of providing a dot, or a nest-egg, for the daughter is gradually being adopted in this country, although there is no talk of dot or no mention of any specified sum.

Parents Provide

Well-to-do parents are growing accustomed to the idea that they are expected to provide some sort of leg-up for their son-in-law. They either expect to give him a start in his wife's father's business, or they expect to provide the funds for the initial expenses of founding a home is taken off the inadequate shoulders of the young man.

Provided a boy's interest and affection are not already centered on a penniless girl, one can hardly blame him for seeking a wife among the girls whose fathers stand willing to do something more than receive him with open arms.

There is no longer any particular prejudice against the working wife, or no stigma attached to a poor man marrying into a family reeking with money. It is not called fortune hunting, as a canny young man of personable appearance browses around the girls who, when the strains of the wedding march are ended, are prepared to have the hand of the bridegroom crossed with silver.

One no longer jumps to the conclusion that because the girl with money marries it is solely because of her money. It has been demonstrated that love and gold make a most satisfactory mixture if the proportions are carefully blended.

Admitting that it is hard on the mother of two lovely daughters to find them a bit of drug on the matrimonial market, I think any mother would admit that she would not want her girls to marry penniless men. This is her argument that, were she the mother of men instead, she would prefer to have her boys marry among the moneyed set.

Whatever else one may see of the age in which we live, it is not a hypocritical one. No one is afraid to confess a preference for falling in love among the rich rather than the poor.

Mutual Advantage

Only a fool could ignore the fact that the high cost of living is not more than the high cost of loving. Such being the case, young folks must have financial assistance to the altar.

In order to marry at all, the average young man must turn to someone for help, and it seems natural to him that that someone should be the girl who is to carve his future with him. It is to their mutual advantage. Assuming that the man is honest and not lazy, according to any way of thinking there is nothing against him if he expects at least as much as he has to offer.

Love has survived poverty, but it has also flown out of the window a sufficient number of times still to be much of a toss-up.

Unless you show a willingness to make a good effort to reinforce your daughters' position in the matrimonial line-up, you need not be surprised to find the less lovely girls who operate under the 50-50 code beating them to the altar.

WITNESS IN BLAST PLOT IS GUARDED

MODESTO, July 23.—UP—Dozens of armed guards patrolled the Stanislaus county courthouse today as the prosecution of eight maritime workers charged with a strike terrorism plot proceeded with one of the State's ace witnesses on the stand.

Escorted into the courtroom by special police when court convened this morning, James Scudder, private investigator, recounted details of his trip from San Francisco to Patterson with the defendants whose alleged intent was to dynamite Standard Oil Company property and assault strikebreakers.

GUARDS ON DUTY

Presence of the guards in court bore out District Attorney Leslie A. Cleary's statements that he feared attempts would be made to carry out anonymous threats to prevent Scudder and Harold Marchant, second special investigator who is scheduled to follow Scudder on the stand, from testifying.

Under cross examination by Defense Attorney Harold Faulkner later in the day, Scudder held steadfastly to his story of accompanying the eight defendants to Stanislaus county from the Bay city, and reaffirmed statements that a quantity of dynamite had been brought down.

NAMES PAIR

It was not expected that Marchant would be called to testify until tomorrow's session.

Scudder, in his testimony today named Alphonse Buyle and John Rogers as the men who purportedly stole dynamite for the alleged plot from a Marin county quarry April 10.

Puyle, Scudder said, boasted that "enough explosives had been obtained to blow up a town."

MISTRIAL ASKED

Defense Attorney Faulkner, before Scudder resumed testimony today, made a motion for a mistrial, and also charged District Attorney Cleary with prejudicial misconduct. Faulkner claimed that defendants in the case had not been informed until today of a second indictment against them.

The second indictment named the eight men as co-defendants with George Brazelton and his wife on charges of "reckless" possession of dynamite.

TO CALL WOMAN

Cleary replied that the indictment against Mrs. Brazelton had been dismissed, and that she would be called this week as a State witness.

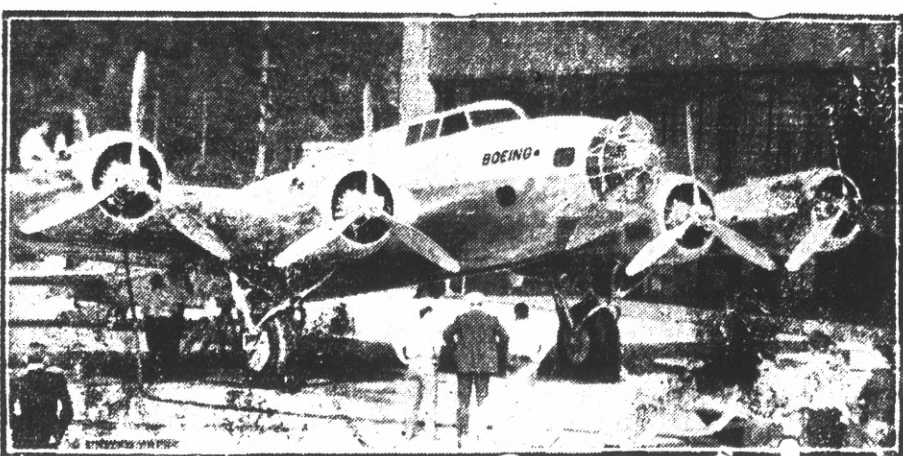

Scudder admitted today for the first time that he had been employed by the San Francisco police department to "be on the lookout for dynamite," and that he had been paid by Harry Majors of the San Francisco department.

He testified that he had "tipped" the San Francisco police of departure of the defendants from San Francisco for Patterson five minutes before they left.

stores and homes, and relieved the critical food shortage through a combination of troop guards and lifting of a road blockade.

The general strike, which began at 1 A. M. Monday in sympathy with 600 striking workers of the cannery plant, was far from won, however.

10,000 ARE OUT

It was estimated that approximately 10,000 union workers, members of 16 of the 17 unions in Vigo county, still were cooperating wholeheartedly in the general workers' demands that guards imported to protect the cannery plant be dismissed.

One charge was released at a jeering mob of about 4,000 pickets about dawn this morning.

GUARDSMAN INJURED
The other was released by approximately 200 guard men when 200 pickets attempted to rush them near noon.

One Guardsman, Private Eugene Harvey, was injured when struck by a piece of concrete hurled by one of the crowd of pickets.

A heavy downpour which began about noon was of considerable help to the militia in dispersing the crowd.

FOOD SHORTAGE

Although the food situation was considerably cleared by the reopening of stores and lifting of the road blockade, there still was a shortage of many necessities.

Nine Drowned, 7 Hurt In Floods

SEOUL, Korea, July 23.—UP—Nine persons were drowned and seven injured in floods inundating villages on the outskirts of Seoul today. Thousands of houses in villages outside the walls of Seoul, Korea's capital, were under water.

PUBLIC TEST PROPOSED BY LEFT WINGER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—UP—Harry Bridges, president of the San Francisco Longshoremen's Association, today proposed to test publicly the strength of his administration among union dock workers.

Bridges' proposal, suggesting a public mass meeting for discussion of waterfront differences, was contained in a letter to Thomas G. Plant, president of the Waterfront Employers' Union, shipowners' organization.

The left wing labor leader told Plant such a meeting would assist in enabling "all parties concerned to come to a much better understanding, and would certainly be the means of eliminating any contention that not over 10 per cent of the men working on the waterfront are in sympathy with the present leadership of the San Francisco local."

WILL BE REFERRED
Plant declined to comment on the proposal beyond saying Bridges' invitation would be referred to the association's executive committee tomorrow. He said he doubted the committee would have any statement to make.

MEN DISSATISFIED
During the day Bridges also issued a statement charging employers were fostering unrest on the waterfront by refusing to pay retroactive wages as provided in the longshoremen board award at end of the 1934 strike.

"The men are dissatisfied because they were awarded the money almost a year ago and have never received it," he said. "I anticipate there will be trouble when the agreement comes up for renewal in September unless the men have been paid."

Bridges said the retroactive award covered pay due the men from the end of the strike to the time the board's decision was announced.

DEMANDS SUBMITTED
Meanwhile demands of the Bargemen's Union in the strike of union workers aboard Sacramento and San Joaquin river boats were submitted to Walter G. Matthews, newly appointed federal conciliator. Matthews also consulted with owners' representatives.

Alleged Masher Is Given Parole

MARTINEZ, July 23.—Upon the insistence of Police Judge C. A. Odell, a parole today was granted to Francis Hughes, 29, Oakland salesman, by the parole board consisting of Sheriff John Miller, District Attorney Francis P. Healy and C. H. Palmer, Martinez chief of police.

Judge Odell stated in a communication addressed to the board that certain facts had come to his attention of which he was not aware at the time sentence was passed.

Hughes was sentenced to 30 days by Judge Odell on a charge that he annoyed a 15-year-old Richmond girl by trying to "pick her up."

Hughes was married only two weeks ago to Miss Doris Smith of 5323 Thomas street, Oakland.

The parole was granted by an anonymous vote.

The Foreign Club at La Jolla has made millions for its American owners, from the ruckers who daily and nightly have frequented its green-covered tables. Agna Caliente, a higher class resort with its wonderful hotel, casino, race track and the playground of the movie stars, has been a mint to its owners. In addition the percentage it paid the government practically provided for all the numerous improvements in tilled in Lower California.

INVESTMENTS WIPE OUT

These investments, running into many millions today are wiped out but one does not hear of any proposed attempt to circumvent the presidential decree. The men who have fattened on the fruits of humanity are wise enough in their day and generation to realize that opposition will only mean a visit from a firing squad, and they are not foolish enough to invite that.

Presidential decrees do not mean very much in this country, so the method here would not likely prove very successful, however, it is regrettable that something is not devised to instill respect or fear within us for law, instead of the contempt for it we see on every hand.

The Coast Guard cutters Haida and Cyane had been searching for the plane which left Alert Bay, B. C., at 2 P. M. Monday, and did not reach Ketchikan, its destination.

No details of the apparent forced landing or the rescue were obtained by the Coast Guard.

GENERAL NAMED

5. Appointing General A. Calles not related to the former president—provisional governor of Tobasco, succeeding Manuel Ortiz, also a Red Shirt sympathizer.

Cardenas' actions in Tobasco, all constitutional and supported by the Congressional commission, resulted from country-wide protest against 12 political murders in Villahermosa, Tobasco, on July 15. Officials feared revolutionary outbreaks unless drastic measures were taken in the State where Garrido was organizing his armed Red Shirts to dominate elections scheduled for August 18.

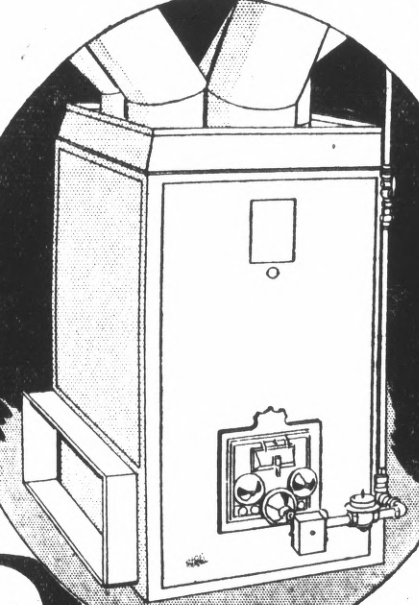

CARDENAS LAUDED

Politicians, workers, peasants and churchmen were impressed favorably by my Cardenas' quick action following his investigation of the Tobasco murders, which were traced directly to Garrido and his political henchmen.

Churchmen regarded Garrido as their worst enemy. Garrido long has feared direct action by the President. He reportedly imported arms and ammunition in readiness for resistance in defense of his 16-year rule over Tobasco.
